Yehuda Welded Mesh was founded in 1974 and since then has been manufacturing welded mesh fences for the construction industry. The company expanded and entered new areas of steel production: scrap recycling, melting, rolling mills, processing and preparation for construction and last but not least – the fences plant established in 1985.

The fencing plant marked a genuine revolution in terms of fences in Israel: the welded fence became a vital component in maintaining property and is part of the landscape in cities throughout Israel.

The chainlink fence, with a short life span and high wear and tear, was replaced by a handsome, strong fence that lasts for years, is difficult to cut tear or climb and does not rust.

Yehuda Welded Mesh, which started out as a small plant with 19 workers, currently runs 10 plants with approximately 700 employees.
